

R vs L

Start

Name (

) Class ( )

right

light

road

load

road

rain

lane

rain

lane

rock

lock

rock

lock

rock

rip

lip

rip

lip

rip

lip

rake

lake

rake

lake

rake

lake

rake

raw

law

raw

law

raw

law

raw

law

pray

play

pray

play

pray

play

pray

play

pray

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

V vs B

Start

Name (

) Class ( )

berry

very

boat

vote

boat

ban

van

ban

van

base

vase

base

vase

base

bend

vend

bend

vend

bend

vend

bin

vin

bin

vin

bin

vin

bin

best

vest

best

vest

best

vest

best

vest

bat

vat

bat

vat

bat

vat

bat

vat

bat

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Start

Name (

) Class ( )

Th vs S, D, Z

think

sink

thin

sin

thin

thank

tank

thank

tank

though

sought

though

sought

though

throw

slow

throw

slow

throw

slow

three

tree

three

tree

three

tree

three

then

den

then

den

then

den

then

den

though

dough

though

dough

though

dough

though

dough

though

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

F vs H

Start

Name (

) Class ( )

fan

han

fat

hat

fat

fair

heir

fair

heir

fall

hall

fall

hall

fall

feel

heel

feel

heel

feel

heel

fight

height

fight

height

fight

height

fight

fame

home

fame

home

fame

home

fame

home

file

hire

file

hire

file

hire

file

hire

file

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Vowels: Short vs Long

Start

Name (

) Class ( )

bit

beat

ship

sheep

ship

sit

seat

sit

seat

full

fool

full

fool

full

rid

read

rid

read

rid

read

pull

pool

pull

pool

pull

pool

pull

men

main

men

main

men

main

men

main

met

mate

met

mate

met

mate

met

mate

met

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Using this Minimal Pair Listening worksheet in your classroom?

Minimal pairs—like pen vs. pan or rice vs. lice—are an effective way to help students sharpen their listening and pronunciation skills by focusing on subtle sound contrasts. If you'd like access to a broader range of these ready-to-use materials for practicing minimal pairs, consider supporting Eigo Ganbare by upgrading to a paid plan. Your support helps Eigo Ganbare continue creating practical, high-quality resources for dedicated educators like you!

Upgrade Now