Computers

Computers are useful in our everyday life. Many people have computers at home. They often use their computers when they write e-mails, and some people buy their favorite things on the Internet.