

Interview Card

Video Conferencing

The Internet has given us some new ways of communicating. One of them is video conferencing, which enables us to have meetings with people in remote places. A camera is attached to the computer, so that the people you are talking to are shown on the display. Video conferencing is already used by many people and is expected to become even more popular.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, two office workers and their boss were talking about having a video conference.

With AUDIO!!

