Services for Pets

Today, more and more pet owners treat their pets like real family members. As a result, the number of companies that offer services for pets, such as groomers, hotels, and funeral services, is also increasing. However, the cost and the quality of the services these companies offer greatly differ. Therefore we should be careful when we choose a pet service.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, Kohei and his father were looking at their dog anxiously.
