Using Less Electricity

Recently, a movement called “Cool Biz” has started in Japan. This is especially for office workers who depend on air conditioning in summer. In this movement, they are encouraged to dress in light clothing. More companies are allowing their employees to dress this way. By doing so, these companies are trying to use less electricity for air conditioning.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One summer day, Mr. Kudo and his boss were talking about a meeting with a new customer.
