World Heritage Sites

Many famous cultural sites and areas of natural beauty have been selected as World Heritage sites. By visiting these places, tourists have opportunities to learn more about history and nature. At the same time, however, World Heritage sites can be damaged by their behavior, so the sites are often difficult to look after. It is everyone's responsibility to care for such important sites.

Your story should begin with this sentence: One day, Jiro, who works in a national park, was talking with his boss.
